The first feature I created was the video hover! I learned some additional javascript to be able to attach a hover feature to Britney Spears' music videos and have them play continuously. I combined the hover pseudo selector feature and a javascript one for that! I felt like Britney Spears is iconic for everything: her visuals, her style, her music, her life. So I thought it would be cool to implement that in a website and learn something new about the hover feature. I tested it on my brother's laptop and the hover was fine, for some reason mine wasn't doing so hot unless you clicked randomly, then all the hover features worked.

Another feature I implemented was the typewriter javascript on the Free Britney page! I wanted to create a dramatic effect for the significance of Britney's freedom.
